WHAT IS LIHEAP?

LIHEAP is the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program funded by United States Health and Human Services.

The Program is designed to assist income-eligible individuals and households with their winter heating bills

Each household may apply for and be awarded assistance only once each program year. Benefits are paid directly to the heating vendor.

Benefit payments are based on income, number of people in the household, type of heat, living arrangements and region of the state they live in.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

Any household in Idaho may be eligible if: The household's total gross income, based on the size of the household, is not more than the monthly amounts listed. If your household size is larger than those listed, call the LIHEAP office for information on your maximum allowable income.
